內文	To cultivate inmates' temperament and enhance their interest in artistic creation, this institution held the preliminary round of the 2026 National Correctional Institutions Creative Comic Competition in May 2026 as part of an arts and moral education program for inmates. Through the process of comic creation, inmates were encouraged to calm their minds and transform their daily reflections, thoughts on past mistakes, and aspirations for the future into visual narratives, thereby reconstructing positive outlooks on life and values. During the event, inmates participated enthusiastically. The competition themes included amusing anecdotes from correctional institution life, anti-fraud advocacy, and hopes and visions for future life. Works under the theme of prison-life anecdotes used lighthearted and humorous styles to portray the daily interactions and experiences of inmates in communal living, bringing smiles to viewers. In the anti-fraud advocacy category, many entries depicted common scam tactics through scenarios closely related to everyday life. Meanwhile, works themed around hopes and visions for the future revealed inmates' aspirations to reintegrate into society and their determination for self-improvement, demonstrating the power of positive transformation. This preliminary comic competition was not only an artistic and cultural contest, but also an opportunity for inmates to reflect on their past behavior through the creative process, while developing confidence and a sense of achievement through self-expression. In the future, the institution will continue to promote diverse arts and cultural activities to help inmates build a solid foundation for their eventual reintegration into society.
